Breastfeeding in Public

Breastfeeding in public can be very convenient. There is no need to keep a bottle, formula and a cooler in the diaper bag. All you need is you and a blanket or wrap if you wish. The most important thing to remember is that you are feeding your baby. You are not doing anything inappropriate! The Federal Government must agree since there have been new laws to protect mothers who choose to breastfeed in public areas.

If you are a new mother or a mother who is not experienced or comfortable breastfeeding in public, there are a few tips that can make you feel more comfortable:

- Try to wear clothes that have easy access for baby – either a shirt that is easy to pull up from the waist, a button down, a shirt that has a stretchy neck that is easy to pull down, or a shirt that was made for breastfeeding.
- If you choose, cover yourself and baby with a baby blanket or nursing wrap. Some babies do not like this so practice at home to see how your baby reacts.
- Slings are very convenient for breastfeeding. Baby is in the perfect position.
- If you are very shy, use a dressing room. Most stores are very willing to allow you to use their dressing rooms for breastfeeding.
- If you are worried about it, practice at home.
- Never allow anyone to tell you that you cannot breastfeed your baby or make you go into a bathroom!!!
- Be proud of choosing the most natural and healthy way to provide nutrition to your baby.

Caffeine and Pregnancy

Caffeine is loved by all! Caffeine can be found in many types of drinks and foods without realizing it. However, now that you are pregnant, you should pay attention to the amount of caffeine you are taking in on a daily basis.

Caffeine is a stimulant. That means that caffeine increases your blood pressure and heart rate, not recommended during pregnancy! Caffeine is also a diuretic. This means it increases the frequency of urination which can lead to dehydration.

Caffeine is not only found in coffee, it is found in many other daily drinks and foods. Caffeine can be found in coffee, tea, soda, energy drinks, chocolate and some medications.

Here is a list of common drinks and snacks with the average amount of caffeine:

- Brewed, coffee, 8oz, 95-165 mg (depending on your coffee blend)
- Brewed, decaf, 8oz, 2-5 mg
- Espresso, 1oz, 47-65 mg
- Latte, 8oz, 63-126 mg
- Dr. Pepper, 12oz, 37 mg
- Diet Coke, 32oz, 124 mg
- Coca-Cola, 32oz, 92 mg

- Ben & Jerry's Coffee Buzz Ice Cream, 8oz, 72 mg
- Baker's chocolate, 1oz, 26 mg
- Green tea, 6oz, 40 mg
- Black Tea, 6oz, 45 mg
- Red Bull, 8oz, 80 mg
- Excedrin, per 1 capsule, 65 mg

Avoiding caffeine during pregnancy is the safest recommendation. However, some experts say anywhere from 150mg-300mg of caffeine is safe. Talk to your doctor about their recommendations during pregnancy.
